According to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, roughly 800,000 children are reported missing each year in the United States -- that's roughly 2,000 per day.

“The children aren’t upstairs,” were the last words shared between John with his wife, Sophie, before their seemingly perfect life turned upside down. Following all leads, the Durham police detectives assigned to find little Charlie and Sally, and Gemma their babysitter, are doing their utmost to close the case before fear starts to ripple through the neighborhood. It is not easy to race against the clock in a quest to find the children when all the leads are taking them in different directions.

This book will twist you!
